It flowers just before the Darwin Tulips filling the gap between the early Botanical Tulips and the Darwins. No other variety has a larger or more brilliant flower. It was presented to Mr. Eisenhower personally when he visited the National Flower Show in Holland in 1951. It was considered the nicest Tulip at the entire show. It is the greatest improvement in Tulips after the introduction of the Darwin Tulips half a century ago.

RHODODENDRONS

The Rhododendrons that we offer in this list have all been grown and tested by us here in Maryland.

For best results, plant Rhododendrons on the North-East side of a building, or in a shaded area where the morning sun does not hit them in the Winter, and the afternoon sun does not hit them in the Summer. Well-drained soil that is damp but not wet is best for Rhododendron. Plant under the same conditions using same soils, fertilizers, and mulches as you would use for planting Azaleas. It is best to protect from the winds in the Winter by a small portable lath fence, or evergreen boughs until plants are well-established.
